

Low-Income Student Support at the IAPM

The IAPM (Interregional Academy of Personnel Management) is committed to helping students in need through financial and other types of assistance. This support addresses several key areas:

1. Student Loans. Low-income students have access to educational loans, enabling them to pursue their studies even if they cannot pay the tuition upfront. Loans can cover either full or partial tuition fees and are offered on favorable terms.
2. Legal Assistance. IAPM operates a Legal Clinic that provides free legal support to students. This is a valuable resource for those with legal questions, especially regarding the rights of low-income individuals.
3. Scholarships and Grants. Students who excel academically or are active in community life but require financial support can apply for scholarships or grants. These awards help cover tuition and other educational expenses.
4. Social Programs and Benefits. Students with special needs or from low-income families can benefit from special programs, including discounts on dormitory accommodation, meals, and study materials.
5. Psychological Support. Students facing emotional or psychosocial challenges due to financial stress can access free Psychological Counseling Services.
6. Employment Opportunities. The Academy collaborates with employers to provide internships and job placements for students. This offers valuable professional experience and helps students manage their financial burdens during studies.
7. Affordable Accommodation and Meals :
Students from low-income families can benefit from discounts on dormitory housing and subsidized meals in the Academy's cafeterias.

These measures help international students from low-income countries pursue education at IAPM, minimizing financial barriers and providing essential support at every stage of their academic journey.
